

CIRCUIT COURT HERE NEXT WEEK

March Calendar Is Brief—Knytter Murder Case On Docket

With Judge A. H. Reid presiding the March term of Oneida county circuit court will convene in this city Monday afternoon, March 5. The afternoon will be largely devoted to the hearing of applicants for citizenship papers.

The calendar for this term is exceedingly brief, there being but four criminal cases, six issues of fact for jury and eight issues of fact for court. The most important criminal case is that of Joseph Knytter, a saloon keeper of Jennings, this county, who is charged with murdering his wife. On December 27 last Knytter is alleged to have shot his wife, inflicting wounds which resulted in her death several days later. Jealousy arising from the attentions which Mrs. Knytter is alleged to have bestowed upon a bartender in Knytter's employ is said to have been the cause for the shooting. Knytter will be defended by Judge H. F. Steele and District Attorney A. J. O'Melia will appear for the prosecution.

Following is the complete calendar:

Criminal Cases
State of Wis. vs. Joseph Knytter, Murder.
State of Wis. vs. August Ahlborn, larceny. Appeal from Municipal Court.

STORES GETTING SPRING STOCKS

Rhinelanders merchants are making their advance showings of spring goods and styles. Some of the window displays are radiant with new arrivals in spring dresses, suits and other apparel to delight the feminine heart. While the stores have received only a small portion of their new goods another month will see all stocks complete.

Clothing dealers are also getting in their new merchandise and some nifty stuff in men's toggery is being shown.

Rhinelanders people should bear in mind that the home merchants are entitled to their patronage. The stores here keep as good and up-to-date stocks as are offered by the catalogue houses and prices are right, too. Don't forget this when buying for spring.

MASS MEETING

Saturday afternoon, March 3, at 1 o'clock there will be a mass meeting of Oneida county farmers in the office of W. D. Juday, agricultural representative, in the court house. Furthering of unity among the farmers is the purpose of the meeting. Many questions of interest and importance to farmers will be discussed. All farmers are urged to be present.

MASONS HONOR RAYMOND
At the sixty-seventh annual session of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons of Wisconsin, held in Milwaukee, M. H. Raymond of this city was elected and installed grand master of the first veil.

Three new chapters were granted—at Wausau, Burlington and Crandon. The report of the secretary shows 12,477 Wisconsin members. During the last year 170 deaths were recorded.

BOYS FEEL GOOD OVER RECEPTION

Soldiers Are Delighted With Their Home-Coming Welcome

"Some reception!" That's what the soldier boys thought of the welcome given them last night. They all said just that when they gathered at the Armory today to check in their equipment, the detail having been postponed last night so as to allow the men to join their families at the earliest possible moment.

The boys didn't expect many people would stay around until ten o'clock on a cold winter night and the enormous crowd which greeted them at the Northwestern station surprised and pleased them.

All along the line the train bearing the company was met by large crowds and at Milwaukee a salute was fired from the lake front. The boys all agree, however, that the welcome from the home folks was "the biggest and best of all."

"Gee, but it's great to be back in dear old Rhinelander again," said one of the company today. "I've had enough of Texas and the home town has never looked so good to me."

Although all the members of the company are overjoyed to be home there is not a man but who would willingly and gladly again respond to his country's call, should the call come.

That life in Texas wholly agreed with the Rhinelander boys is evidenced by the fact that all are in perfect health. On the whole they are in much better physical condition than when they left.

LADY FORESTERS GIVE SOCIAL

St. Elizabeth's Court No. 267 W. C. O. F. entertained their husbands and friends at a social meeting Tuesday evening February 20. The program of the evening consisted of instrumental music by Miss Dewey, Messrs. Cardin and Schliesman, and several vocal selections by Miss Alice Schliesman.

Miss Schliesman's charming voice and sweet personality always gives her audience a double pleasure.

And last but far from least was the entertaining talk given by Rev. Father Beaudette on his travels in Europe when a student.

Father Beaudette is a keen observer and his descriptions are so vivid that one almost imagines he is viewing the scenes in person.

The evening's entertainment concluded with a very delightful banquet. The tables were very artistically decorated, flags and American beauty roses forming the center pieces.

CARS JUMP RAILS

The north bound passenger train on the Milwaukee road was derailed just south of Minocqua Friday morning. No one was injured and in view of this fact the accident is considered a fortunate one.

All the coaches are said to have left the track with the exception of the baggage car. The few remaining passengers on board were transferred to this car and taken to Minocqua. A crew was gathered at this point and sent back to the scene of the wreck.

The derailment was due to a broken rail, according to reports received here at noon.

MEDICAL SOCIETY AGAIN ACTIVE

The Oneida-Forest-Vilas County Medical society, which has been inactive for about six years, held an election of officers at a recent meeting.

Dr. Bennet was elected president and Dr. C. A. Richards secretary. The societies will hold meetings in the state hygienic laboratory and the next meeting will be held this month.

EIGHT HOUR DAY

At a recent meeting of local 654 of this city, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, it was unanimously voted that after May 1st the work day of the union shall be eight hours and the pay fifty cents per hour. Contractors in this city were notified to this effect the first of the week.

RHINELANDER WELCOMES RETURNING SOLDIERS

Early on a beautiful June morning, over eight months ago, two thousand Rhinelander people arose at 4:30 to say good bye to Company L, when Captain Forest H. Himes led his command away for what at the time looked like certain service in protecting the country's border from marauding Mexicans.

At the Northwestern depot at ten o'clock Wednesday night practically the entire population of the city gathered to welcome home the sturdy young men who returned from the bloodless tour of duty, which lasted through a whole, hot Texas summer. The crowd, which met the company is estimated to have been the largest to ever congregate in Rhinelander on any public occasion.

The joyous welcome was no less impressive than the solemn farewell. The boys received the ovation of heroes when their train pulled into the station. The great crowd was packed around the depot grounds as the soldier boys left the train, formed a column and promptly started on a march up Brown street to their armory.

The Rhinelander band and the fife and drum corp headed the procession and the entire cheering crowd marched with the boys, on either side of the column and bringing up the rear.

The company was handled promptly and in accordance with the previously conceived program. The short march to the armory was quickly negotiated. There, instead of the considerable delay which had been expected, the boys were allowed to stack their equipment and hurry out to meet their folks, who had scant opportunity to do any greeting at the depot.

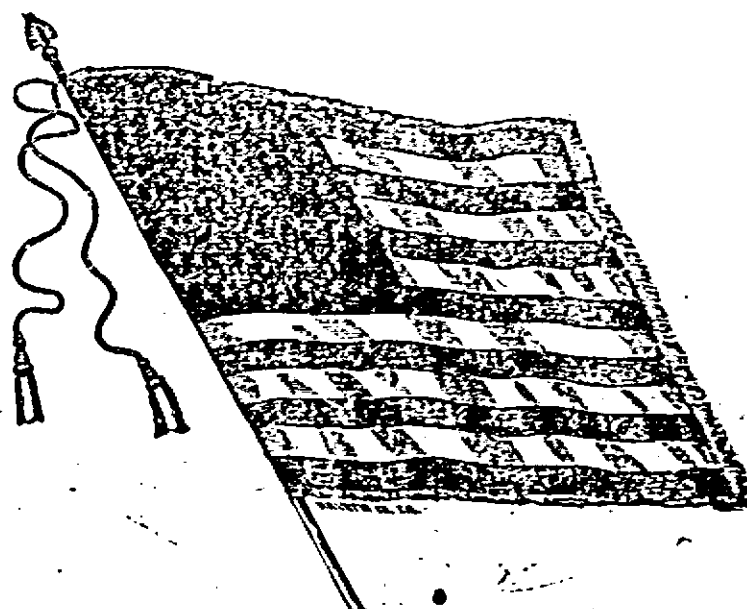

This morning the work of checking the equipment was completed.

The trip from Fort Sheridan was made on a special train, it requiring three trains to convey the regiment. With Company L when the train arrived in Rhinelander, was the Ashland company. The train remained here about thirty minutes before proceeding north. It was an early hour this morning when the Ashland boys reached home.

CO. L BANQUET SATURDAY

Saturday night has been decided upon by the committee in charge as the date of the home-coming banquet for Company L at the Hotel Oneida. Aside from Company members, G. A. R. veterans and men who returned from Camp Douglas last summer, will be guests of honor.

The plates will be limited to one hundred and fifty as the seating capacity of the dining room at the Oneida does not exceed this number. The price of a plate is $1.00. The banquet will be strictly "stag." Practically all tickets for the affair have been sold.

"YOUR FLAG AND MY FLAG"

FAVOR REPEAL OF BUCK LAW

Has Failed Of Purpose Is Belief In Northern Wisconsin

Madison, Feb. 26.—It is the plan of the legislature to take up all amendments proposed for the fish and game laws at once, and it is now proposed to hold a joint hearing of the senate committee on state affairs and the assembly committee on fish and game for a discussion of the measures in the near future. Members of the conservation commission, which has charge of the enforcement of the fish and game laws, will be invited to attend.

The most important changes proposed for the fish and game laws are in regard to the shooting of deer. There is a consistent demand from Northern Wisconsin for the repeal of the law passed two years ago which limits the deer hunting of a single hunter to one buck. It is claimed in opposition to this law that the only result of the law has been to leave the carcasses of does which are slain in the woods and instead of lessening the number of deer shot has in reality increased the number of deer killed, by reason of the fact that hunters who have shot does have left them and have kept on hunting until they have secured a buck.

There is a demand in the legislature for the passage of a law for a five year closed season for deer. It is not likely such a bill will pass the legislature, although a bill is up to create such a closed season. Friends of this bill declare the object of the bill to be to render deer hunting in Wisconsin permanent and claim that if the deer are left alone for a period of five years they will increase sufficiently in numbers so that under proper limitations deer hunting can remain a sport for many years to come without the enforcement of another closed season.

It is, however, said that if no closed season is adopted, to protect the deer it will only be a question of a few years before very few of them will be left to hunt. Whether or not the conservation commission favors an immediate closed season for deer cannot be learned. The members do not seem to care to discuss the question and they want to hear the arguments pro and con on the measure before making a recommendation.

There is a likelihood, however, that the legislature will repeal the single buck law, so very great is the demand for the repeal of the measure.

WILL BE PRESENT AT INAUGURAL

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Crosby of this city will be among the Wisconsin people who will attend the inauguration of President Wilson in Washington Monday.

Wisconsin's delegation to the inaugural will travel to Washington by special train, but will return as the members please, a number intending to make side trips and to spend some time in the east.

Reservations on the special train which will leave the Northwestern station in Milwaukee Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock have been made by the following residents in the state:

National Committeeman and Mrs. Joseph Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Burr, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hogan, Judge Thomas Delaney, Green Bay; State Chairman Otto A. La Budd, Elkhart Lake; Mr. and Mrs. George Schmidt, Kewaskum; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lyons, Colby; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nash, Grand Rapids; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Crosby, Rhinelander; Mr. and Mrs. George H. Herzog, Racine; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McCoy, Lancaster; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Keeley, Hudson; Secretary Joseph S. Gludice, C. D. Storch, Schleisingerville; James Gorman, Kenosha; Verne Ruland, Eagle River; Jacob Riederich, Cedarburg.

TAKE OFF MAIL CAR

It is said that the mail car on the Monico-Watersmeet branch will be taken off and the Vilas County News voices its protest as follows:

"It is understood in railway circles that the U. S. postoffice department is contemplating taking off the mail car on the Monico-Watersmeet line of the Northwestern and carrying nothing but pouched mail in and out. It is said this ruling will go into effect very soon. This will be some progression to the service already given on this branch. Why not put us back to the days of the pony-express service. Might just as well.

Will Eagle River and the other villages down the line let this be put over without any effort?"

NEWSY NOTES OF NEARBY TOWNS

Park Falls—

The high cost of living has finally reached a crisis, at least so far as the local laboring class is concerned and the working men have decided to make a strenuous effort to remedy conditions. At an impromptu meeting at which over thirty laborers were present, the high cost of living, the cost of high living, the merchants' new "black list" system and other points were discussed and it was agreed that unless there is a radical change in the very near future, the workingman with a family to support will soon be in desperate straits. While it was admitted that prices on the necessities of life are high throughout all parts of the country, the impression seemed to prevail among those present at the meeting that prices in this city are higher than elsewhere and a committee was appointed to inquire into the matter and ascertain if such is the case.

Washburn—

O. G. Anderson of Madeline Island, chairman of the town of La Pointe, reports that in his opinion Lake Superior is entirely frozen over this winter. He states that it has been a matter of dispute as to whether Lake Superior entirely freezes over or not during the weather that has prevailed for the past eight weeks has, however, frozen Lake Superior over, according to Mr. Anderson. While the ice between Madeline and Bayfield is covered with some snow, Mr. Anderson states that on the north and east sides of the island one can look for miles and see nothing but the glary ice without a particle of snow on its surface.

Gladstone—

Gladstone presented a real metropolitan appearance Saturday night, the employees of the three largest concerns here receiving their semi-monthly pay. The streets were crowded with great throngs of people and the stores enjoyed a good business. Both picture theaters were packed to the doors throughout the entire evening. Both theaters report a record business for both Saturday and Sunday. In addition to their regular semi-monthly wages the employees of the Northwestern Cooperage company received their first bonus checks, under the new system which was inaugurated the first of the year.

Under this system every working man, in the employ of the company is to receive a check for $7 every two months until further notice. The company took this means of helping their employees solve the increased cost of living. The next distribution of bonus checks will be made on April 25.

BUYS GUERNSEY SIRE

From the Antigo Journal it is learned that Anton Follstad of Elcho has just added a high class young Guernsey sire with strong A. R. O. backing to his herd. Mr. Follstad secured the animal from A. Knudson, a well known Guernsey breeder of Brodhead, Wisconsin.

The bull, Glenwood of Sugar River, according to Mr. Follstad, is light fawn color, with a liberal sprinkling of white markings and in every respect a show animal. He runs strong to Glenwood breeding on both dam's sides. Mr. Follstad recently took a trip to the southern part of the state to look up a sire, but not finding just what he wanted came back without one. In the meantime the owner of the animal purchased had sent him a sketch of a young calf and also such a flattering description that Mr. Follstad ordered the calf and sent the check, first having secured the assurance that the owner was reliable.

THAT BUNK ABOUT AN OPEN WINTER

'Twas one Indian from Odanah, with a queer, elusive mind, who said the present winter would be of "open" kind; said he knew this absolutely, from the signs that he had seen; knew there would be no cold weather; knew that New Years would be "green."

And this Nitchie man asserted that from early in the fall to the break-up in the springtime, there would be no cold at all. There might be some "dirty weather" in the summer months, he said, but of this "open winter" we might all be free from dread.

And, when asked how he became so wise, this guy averred that he was a student of the muskrat, squirrel and bark upon the tree. And he said that they had told him quite early in the fall that the present try at winter would be a bluff, that's all.

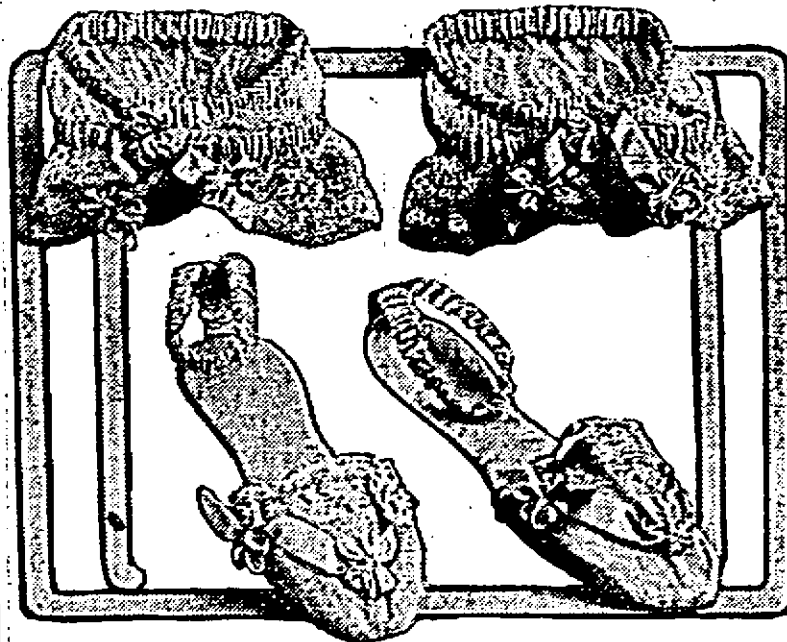

He claimed the muskrat always knew the weather far ahead, and told it plainly by the signs, which could be plainly read; and he said an "open" winter there assuredly would be, because the "rats" had built themselves a very thin tepee; he even said that some of them no house at all had made—they could keep warm this winter without artificial aid.

And the squirrels knew the mildness of the coming winter's mood, and had done no extra hustling to lay up a store of food. And the bark upon the forest trees was very thin he said—another "open winter" sign was what he therein read. And all this bunk this Nitchie man spread generally throughout the whole Northwest, where it was met with scarce an honest doubt.

And then the frost began to come, and come, and come some more, until the world was frozen as it never was before. It froze the earth clear through and through, it froze the air overhead, and still the mercury went down just like a lump of lead. It froze the fires in the stoves, froze water in the well, and there are some that maintain that it froze a film o'er—well, at any rate it froze things up the worst you ever saw; from November to the first of March there never was a thaw.

We've suffered from this winter, and we hope we'll never see another of the "open" kind, if this is a sample be. And this copper colored liar from the region of Bad River, may he never get right warm again, may he always shake and shiver; may the balance of his life be such as always to remind him of the joys of winter of the, so-called "open" kind.—Ironwood Times.

In the Garden of the Boudoir

From head to foot the dainty woman likes to have all her belongings express refinement. Whether her taste be grave or gay (and it is sure to be both) she strives to make her love of beauty and her personality apparent in everything she wears. Her sense of fitness, and her disposition, may cause her to appear on the street in the most reserved of tailor-mades, but within her own four walls look for gayeties that blossom at their prettiest in her own room.

Such flowerlike things as are pictured here flourish in the garden of the boudoir, among other pretty luxuries that every woman loves. They are easily made and may match the negligee or be selected to harmonize with it. Light tints look well with white and almost any color.

The set of slippers with garters to match, as pictured, will look well with any color, which makes them a safe choice as a gift. The toe slippers are made of lambs'-wool soles covered with light pink satin. A flat elastic band, covered with pink satin ribbon shirred over it, makes a loop that is attached to the back of the sole and holds the slipper to the foot. The satin that forms the toe is covered with a light lace having the pattern run with silver thread. Three small, flat rosettes of satin ribbon are mounted on the toe. They are joined by ribbon and look like flowers.

The garters are made of elastic bands with ribbon shirred over them. A founce of the silver-run lace falls from the covered band and helps make a lovely background for three rosettes like those on the slippers. Such an enticing bit of adornment is within the reach of everyone who knows anything of needle work and even a million-aress can't have anything prettier.

Julia Bonnelly

Pocket Idea.

Instead of putting your square patch pockets on your new satin frock at perfectly symmetrical right angles, try applying them in diamond shape. Sew only the two bottom sides of the square to the frock, and button the uppermost point to the frock, so that the result is a pocket with practically two openings. It is surprising what an unusual effect this gives to a frock, especially if fur buttons on the pockets carry out the fur trimming on the frock.

THE NEW NORTH $1.50 A YEAR

THE NEW NORTH

The New North Printing Co.
Entered at the Postoffice at Rhine-
lander, Wis., as Second Class
Mail Matter
MARCH 1, 1917

For the cause that lacks assistance;
For the wrong that needs resistance;
For the future in the distance
And the good that we can do."

WANTED—Boy to learn printers' trade at New North office.

At a special election held in Manitowoc commission form of government was defeated by a big majority in every ward in the city. All told there were 1,323 votes against
and 469 for commission.

Oneida county needs roads, so we hope the road bond issue to be voted on in April will pass.

If this bond issue does pass the annual amount to be raised to pay
the principal and interest will be about ten thousand five hundred dollars ($10,500) yearly. This still leaves about twelve thousand dollars a year to repair roads without increasing the taxes for roads. We need the roads, we need them now.

BE ON YOUR GUARD
The time for pneumonia and grip
is again here and warnings are sounded by physicians and health boards to beware of this most treacherous of all diseases says an exchange.

People are given to associating
pneumonia with cold weather,
whereas the disease is just as likely to fasten itself upon a person in unseasonably warm weather, when carelessness in dress or indifference to sudden changes in temperature are shown.

Pneumonia is a malady to guard against at all times and especially during winter months when changeable conditions arise every few days as has been the case this winter.

The prudent thing to do is to take care of a cold if one attacks you
and by all means to avoid pneumonia if possible to do so.

LENROOT ON WAR

In answer to resolutions protesting against war except in case of an invasion of this country and urging the withdrawal of neutral shipping from the war zone, which were sent to Washington from a mass meeting in Washburn, Congressman L. L. Lenroot of this district declares that he can not support all the propositions named in the resolutions.

"While I sincerely hope that
peace may be preserved between
this country and Germany, and I in
the past have done all I could
to promote this end, I cannot support all the propositions named in
the resolutions," says Congressman Lenroot in his letter. "When any of
the belligerents no matter of
which side they are, make themselves an outlaw and absolutely disregard all neutral rights, the United States, if it has any self respect left
must, if that outlawry is continued,
take action, and so long as President Wilson acts within the limits
of our rights I shall support him."
"Permit me to say, that if the
sentiments in these resolutions had
been the sentiments of the people
living in this country in 1776, we
would still have been a colony of Great Britain's."

MUNICIPAL COMMANDMENTS

"The American City Magazine in a late issue contained 'ten commandments' that we have been requested to publish.

1. Thou shalt love thy home above all other towns. Thou shalt speak no evil of her; thou shalt be loyal to her people, worthy of the great men and women of her past,
confident in her present, and full
of hope for her future.

2. Thou shalt guard thy home town from the host of evil that would invade her and destroy her soul. Thou shalt keep the good name of the home town clean and without stain or blemish.

servants in political office men of strong character, without fear or favor of the boss or the ring, eager to conserve the best interests of thy people.

4. Thou shalt exalt thy public school and honor it all the days of thy life with the best of teachers,
building and equipment, for the school is the cradle of democracy.

5. Thou shalt defend the health of thy home town from the death
deal lurks in marshes, swamps and heaps of filth. Thou shalt exterminate the fly and likewise the mosquito. The tubercle bacillus shall thou drive before thee with the sun
and fresh air as thy allies.

6. Thou shalt build good roads and keep them good, for by her roads is a village known for good or ill. Thou shalt not be content with sand in thy cup holes, but only with oil and stone and tar.
Eternal watchfulness shall be thy motto, that thy roads may not fail nor thy supervisor forge thee.

7. Thou shalt keep thy home town beautiful. The halls, the trees, the waters that nature has given her thou shalt preserve in sacred trust. No hovel of man shall thou permit to disfigure them. Thou shalt turn the caterpillar in his nest. Thy waters shall thou purify, that they may bring thee life
and strength.

8. Thou shalt go to church.
Thou shalt not consider thyself too wise nor too busy nor too good to spend an hour or two on Sunday
with thy neighbors in the worship of God. Thou shalt offer thyself to the minister and the officers of the church for the service of God and thy community.

9. Thou shalt honor thy home town with a Neighborhood House

Thou shalt meet thy neighbors
there on equal footing. Thou shalt work with them there for the common welfare.

10. Thou shalt not take unto thy self any graven image of a community secretary. When thou findest
the man thou desirest, thou shalt obey him. Thou shalt do as thou are bidden. Thou shalt serve on committees where thou are put and not intrude on committees where thou art not put.

FACING SERIOUS ECONOMIC STATE

That the United States is facing a serious economic condition as a result of the heavy burdens placed upon it by the war abroad and by the proverbial thriftlessness of the rank and file of our population,
was voiced Tuesday by S. W.
Strauss, President of the American Society for Thrift. In a communication presented by him to the Committee on Thrift Education of the National Education Association,
of which Strauss is a member,
he declared that the present
abnormal prices for commodities is an indication of serious conditions.

"I believe every member of this committee is willing to admit the seriousness of the economic situation in America," Strauss declared.

"While it is true that we as a nation are prosperous, it is equally incontrovertible that as individuals
we are profligate. In this country
the records of the Surrogate Courts,
for example, show that 82 out of every 100 men who die leave no income producing estates. Only 3% leave estates amounting to $10,000 or more. Out of every 100 women who are left widows, only 18 are in good or comfortable circumstances. The other 48 are obliged to go to work and 35 are left either in absolute want or are, to a great extent, objects of charity.

At the present time, and for several years, we have been going thru
a period of abnormal prices for commodities. The American housewife today is paying her grocer and her butcher prices that are reminiscent of the days of the Civil War,
but it is not specifically the high cost of living that affords cause for alarm. The seriousness of the situation lies in those facts that make the cost of living high, and this is to a great extent thriftlessness. The European war, which is the most prodigious example of wastefulness in the history of the world, is responsible to a great extent for the untoward conditions in America. Values running far into the billions have been wiped out in the unhappy lands across the sea and the end is not yet in sight.
All humanity must help share the burden of this waste. Every citizen in America today is helping to pay this giant's tax. And, what is more distressing, there will be no let-up with the dawn of peace. The enormous war bills of Europe will place a load upon the citizens of America for many years to come.
At the same time we have as an additional burden the thriftlessness of our own people, and this is proverbial. We are the Belshazzar of all nations. We have for generations been seated at the Babylonian feast of plenty. But the hand has written upon the wall. Unless we take warning we will suffer the fate
of that ancient city, which for 2,000 years ruled the world with week ending March 7, 1917, furishundisputed sway.

"While I sincerely hope that
peace may be preserved between
this country and Germany, and I in
the past have done all I could
to promote this end, I cannot support all the propositions named in
the resolutions," says Congressman Lenroot in his letter. "When any of
the belligerents no matter of
which side they are, make themselves an outlaw and absolutely dis-
regard all neutral rights, the United States, if it has any self respect left
must, if that outlawry is continued,
take action, and so long as President Wilson acts within the limits
of our rights I shall support him."
"Permit me to say, that if the
sentiments in these resolutions had
been the sentiments of the people
living in this country in 1776, we
would still have been a colony of Great Britain's."

CLEASBY TALKS ON BIRD LIFE

In the city hall Monday night, L.
A. Cleasby of Eau Claire, district
inspector of migratory bird law,
addressed a fair sized audience on bird and insect life. Mr. Cleasby is considered one of the best authorities on this subject in the United States. He is an able speaker and handled his subject in a manner
which was both instructive and entertaining. That more people did not hear him is to be regretted.

Mr. Cleasby spoke mainly on the protection of insect eating birds. He told of the value of these birds to agriculture and what their protection means to the nation from an economic standpoint. He related many ways in which the birds can be protected.

Mr. Cleasby also touched on subjects relating to sportsmen's organizations and the protection of fish and game.

During his stay in Rhinelander, Monday Mr. Cleasby spoke seven times. He addressed the members of the Commercial club at their dinner at the Hotel Oneida and spoke in the city schools.

FIRE THREATENS SAW MILL PLANT

Two piles of lumber in the yard
of the Stevens Lumber company were partially destroyed Wednesday afternoon by a fire which threatened to wipe out the company's mill and millions of feet of lumber. As a strong wind prevailed at the time, the situation looked critical. By strenuous effort, however, the fire department succeeded in subduing the blaze.

A spark from the mill burner is thought to be responsible for the fire.

NO WONDER HE'S HAPPY

There is one young business man
on Davenport street today whose face is so radiant with smiles that it resembles a page from Puck. He is E. H. Markham, of the firm of Markham & Parker, and the cause of his jubilation is the advent of a baby daughter at his home last night. She is a charming little Miss and is said to possess her pa-pa's angelic disposition.

"We have a boy and a girl now,"
said the happy Edward as he passed around the stogies, "just a nice little family in these days of IL
C. of L."

THEY ALL KNOW COVEY

W. L. Covey, the genial salesman for the Wilson Mercantile Co.,
of Wausau, has been given the management of the company's whole sale house now being established at Rhinelander. Covey is so well known in Vilas county that even the kinds know when he happens to miss a regular scheduled date.—Vilas County News.

R. J. Morter of this city was held byterian church in Lodi, Wis.—Mr.

ter and his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Thomas Morter attended the funeral. The remains were laid to rest in the family lot.

MRS. CHRISTENSON PAROLED

Judge A. H. Reid in this city Friday sentenced Mrs. Lena Christenson to three years in the state penitentiary following her plea of guilty to a statutory charge. She was released under parole.

Mrs. Christenson was arrested last summer for keeping a house of ill repute.

Ray Rheume, who is a member of Company L and a musician with the Second regiment band, did not return with the company Wednesday night, but went on to Marshfield and will arrive home Friday.

Mrs. Frances Harrington Thursday March 1.

The book club will meet with
Mrs. Perry Donnelly next Tuesday
March 6.

Miss Helen Holwanski returned to her home after an extended stay
in Rhinelander with Mr. and Mrs.
Walter Grosman.

A party was held in Miss Glea-son's school last Thursday to celebrate the birthday of George Washington. All the mothers were invited.

A Lindstrand made a trip to Rhinelander last Saturday.

Joe Phillips is engaged at the Grosman farm; they are busy hauling logs to the camp five landing.

An election was held last Tuesday in the town hall to raise money for the new road to be built between Merle Hunter's farm and the new Three Lakes road.

Mrs. Field and children are staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
August Keso.

Martyr Gave Name to City.
Known in Roman times as Augusta Veromanduorum, St. Quentin, France, received its present name in honor of Gaius Quintinus, who was put to death
there in the third century while preaching the doctrines of Christianity. Four centuries later his tomb became a shrine and the advent of many pilgrims served to magnify the importance of the town, while its industrial prosperity was materially advanced during the middle ages by the introduction of cloth manufacture.

THE HEIRLOOM RING

By J. K. WARD.

It was a great disappointment to Frank Lloyd to be obliged to leave Linville with his love for Amy Baker undeclared. But the summons home was imperative. "Your father is seriously ill. Come at once," it said.

So on the afternoon of Frank's departure from Linville Miss Baker received by mail a letter and a registered package. Both were in the same handwriting and after considering for a moment she opened the letter first.

"My dear little Amy," it began. "The sudden and serious illness of my father has called me away from Linville. For reasons which I am sure you must guess, I hate to go, but the call is urgent, for my father has been until recently nearest to my heart. I am sending by this mail my ring, a family heirloom. If the love which you must know I feel for you is returned, will you wear the ring until I can replace it with another? When I return, which will be as speedily as possible, if I find the ring on your hand I shall know that my dearest hopes are to be realized. Your devoted lover,

"Frank."

Shyly and reverently Amy drew the curious and valuable ring from its box.
For scarcely a moment did she consider before slipping it on her finger. Ever since Frank had arrived at the home of her friends, the Deans, to spend the summer with his college chum
Geoffrey, he had occupied first place in her heart, and she had hoped that her love was reciprocated.

Into this perfect bliss came trouble
swift and unexpected. The blow fell on a day when Harold, Amy's younger brother, burst into her room with a face on which horror and despair were jointly pictured.

It was the old story of a young man,
tempted to gamble, "borrowing" the funds of the institution which employed and trusted him, until the small pecuniations could be no longer concealed.

Amy listened, white faced, to the piteous recital.

"It will kill father and mother if you are arrested for stealing," she said.

So Amy's few good jewels were taken from their hiding place, and Harold,
chastened and subdued, set out to raise money on them to make good his deficiency before it should be discovered. But the most he could raise fell far short of the sum total he needed,
and, with despair at his heart, he wended his way back to where his sister tremblingly awaited him.

"It's no use, little sister," he said.
"I shall have to pay the penalty. I can't get near enough on your little trinkets."

Amy bowed her head on her hands,
and as she did so her brow touched the betrothal ring on her finger. For only a second she hesitated, then drawing the ring from her finger she handed it to Harold.

"Take it," she said. "It is worth a great deal of money."

Then bursting into tears she turned away from Harold's grateful thanks and sought refuge alone, where she could weep out her heart at the loss of her treasure.

Frank returned unannounced to Linville and went straight to Amy's house. Lights shone from the windows, and as he drew near he could see Amy at the piano. Startled, he gazed at her. One of his closest rivals
was bending over her in an attitude of devotion—and Frank's ring was not on her hand.

Seeing, but unseen, he decided that his cause was hopeless, and went as quietly as he had come.

Six months later Frank was called to a city a short distance from Linville. Seeking shelter from a sudden shower in a pawnbroker's doorway, he glanced carelessly at the window display. To his unbounded astonishment
he saw his own ring.

He rushed into the shop and asked to see the ring. His judicious questioning brought out the fact that a young man had brought in the ring and other jewelry. From his description Frank had no doubt that Harold had pawned the ring, although examination of the pawnbroker's records gave an entirely different name.

Without loss of time Frank hastened to Linville. He would see Harold and demand the truth. Perhaps—and at the thought his pulses bounded—
there was some reason besides indifference for Amy's failure to wear his ring.

He reached the small town at noon,
and almost the first person he met was
Harold hastening to lunch.

Frank went straight to the point,
and Harold, after being convinced that there was a vital reason for the searching question, broke down and admitted that Amy had pawned her jewels to raise money for him. Then in answer to Frank's eager questions
he said sadly:

"Amy has changed greatly. Whether it was because of my wrongdoing
or not I don't know, but from the day
she knew of it her health and spirits failed."

So it happened that when Frank,
eager and ardent, entered the Baker
drawing room, it was a frail shadow of the former blooming girl that turned
a languid head to see who was coming.
A few minutes later, however, the pale cheeks had taken on a hue of health,
the languidness had disappeared, and a new and more beautiful Amy received Frank's betrothal kiss, so long delayed and so ardently desired.

paper Syndicate.)

NEWSY NOTES OF NEARBY TOWNS

Ashland—
Emil Garnich, the well known Ashland resident, who accompanied by his daughter, Miss Belle, is enjoying a trip to the West Indies, Cuba and the Panama Canal, had the pleasure of his sojourn at Costa Rica marred by being placed under civil arrest by the police. Mr.
Garnich was at Costa Rica about four weeks ago when a large number of the people revolted against the rule of their president whom they claimed was about to decamp
with all of the money in the national treasury. Mr. Garnich happened to be on the street at the time when the insurrectionists,
armed with knives and guns, started for the capitol with the intention of wreaking their vengeance
on the president. The crowd had Garnich had an opportunity to return to his hotel. A policeman quickly rushed him into a private residence, however, where he detained Mr. Garnich for about two hours until the insurrection had been quelled.

Iron River—
According to the Iron River Pioneer a large flock of ducks, estimated to number nearly 100, flew northward over that village a few days ago, and wild ducks in smaller numbers may be seen daily in the open water of the upper Iron river.
While the presence of ducks at this time of the year is reckoned
as an indication of an early spring,
the old timers of these parts are not liable to throw away their heavy underwear just yet.

Washburn—
After pleading guilty to charges
of running "blindpigs," three out of four Washburn men brought before County Judge Axelberg here testified under oath, that they had paid Police Chief A. M. Kerr sums ranging from $5 to $15 for permission to operate and for promises of warning if raids were threatened.
Charles F. Morris, county attorney, announced a searching investigation of the matter. Mayor A. W.
MacLeod stated that Chief Kerr would be suspended during the investigation. The chief had no statement to make. The matter first came up about a week ago, when the mayor warned the police chief
that all of the "blindpigs" must be eliminated within 30 days or "there would be a new head of the police department."

Lighting the Oven.

A baker's oven, illuminated on the inside, is a great advantage, since otherwise the contents cannot be closely inspected, unless withdrawn from the oven. An arrangement suitable for electric or gas lighting has been devised. The door is hinged to the frame by means of pins. One pin is provided with a counterweight to facilitate the action of the door in opening and closing. The other pin has a crank arm. On an extension on the door is mounted a knife switch, with two short fingers to engage with the crank arm. The opening of the door establishes an electrical connection with a lamp mounted in a casing near the door. If gas is used, the crank arm engages with the shank of a valve which regulates the flow of gas
to the burner in the casing.—Popular Science Monthly.

Get It Exact.

"Why is it that the butcher always sends me more meat than I order, never by any chance less?" complained a young housekeeper to her husband.

"Let me give him an order," said he,
and stepping to the telephone, he called
up the market. "Send me two pounds
of porterhouse," he ordered, "and say,
if you can't cut two pounds make it a pound and a half." He got the two pounds by the next delivery.—New York Sun.

Rack Rent.

A "rack rent" is a "rent that is equivalent to the full net annual value
of the real property out of which it issues, or approximately so." By statute in England today rack rent is defined as "not less than two-thirds of the full net annual value of the lands out of which it arises."

WILL ALL PEOPLE
CRY FOR PEACE?

To the Editor:—

It must be apparent to every observer of current discussion, that there is a growing, feverish intensity to organize the world into a "league to enforce peace." Statesmen in all the nations are voicing the sentiment. Churchmen are working for this league with might and main; and some think that "above all, the Christian leaders" must enter into this work of establishing the proposed peace league. They consider that "neutral Christians have a great mission" in bringing the world up to the point where it will be free from war.

On the face of it, such propositions seem good. It is not surprising that thousands upon thousands of the best men and women of the world are swayed by the impression that they should secure a league of nations which will forever put an end to the horrible butcheries that are now in progress in the Old World. But certainly, in the midst of all this feverish discussion, in these excitable times, there will be some who will think sufficiently beneath the surface to make the earnest inquiry, "If the Christianity of the 'Christian nations' of 1914 could not prevent the war, is there a sufficient change in the Christianity of these 'Christian nations' of 1916 to form a league that will prevent the recurrence of such a catastrophe?"

Paul, speaking of these very times in which we live, describes a great mass of people as uttering a chorus cry of "Peace and safety," who are to be visited by "sudden destruction." "There is no peace, saith my God, to the wicked." Isa. 57:21.

Is it possible to take the wicked, selfish men of this wicked world, and form a league, or a combination, even though it be done in the name of Christianity, that will establish perpetual peace?

Every Christian will devotedly labor for peace; but every careful student of the Bible must be impressed with the fact that there is no promise of lasting peace in this wicked world. On the other hand, we learn, from the divine Book, that the greatest persecuting despotism known to history will be found in the last days, in the name of the Christian religion, and ostensibly to secure perpetual peace.

The promises of the Bible hold forth the great prospect of the soon coming of Christ, when He will destroy all sin and wickedness, in order that He may bring in the reign of everlasting peace, in the eternity of bliss that He has promised to those who will accept and carefully follow the teachings of His divine word.

Very sincerely yours,
ELDER F. STEBBES,
Pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

ONEIDA TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

Ruth Saterstrom is now substituting for Miss Nagel, who teaches at Starks.

Thursday the Training school and Model school enjoyed a talk given by Miss Schofield about her trip to Mt. Vernon. Later Mr. Heyl gave an interesting address to the Training school.

M. V. Boyce, principal of Woodruff schools, was a visitor here last Friday.

Ora Hill spent Sunday at her home in North Crandon.

Muriel Bull Sundayed at Cavour.

The Training school faculty, and the Model department had the pleasure of listening to a talk given by Mr. E. A. Cleasby on birds and insects, Monday morning. Some of the interesting points in regard to birds and bird-life were brought out. We, as teachers, should not tell the boys not to kill birds, but we should teach him about birds, their songs and habits. We can show him how to build bird houses and what to feed the birds in winter. We can make children see the need and beauty of bird life and make them so interested in birds that we will not need to say, "Do not destroy the birds."

Figures from the U. S. biological survey, show that thirty-one million birds are killed yearly by domestic cats.

The following were visitors at the Training school last week: Miss White of Jennings, Miss Norma Brett Schneider of Goodman, and Miss Hagan of Woodruff.

"Mother, how does salt grow?" asked Katherine. Mother, who was not up on the subject of minerals, and not wishing to show her ignorance, said: "Now what is the use of asking about it. Why not plant some and find out!"

LOUIS HAAS IS LAID TO REST

The remains of Louis Haas, whose death occurred Thursday last at his home in the town of Crescent, were taken to Marathon City, Wis., Monday where the funeral was held from the Catholic church. Interment was made in the family lot beside the graves of his wife and daughter. Those who accompanied the body from this city were Mrs. Frank Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ollhoff, and Master Walter Haas, son of deceased, and Mrs. Louis Kittowski.

Louis Haas was born in Stevens Point in 1863. He spent his early manhood in that city and vicinity and came to Rhinelander with his parents twenty-six years ago. He was united in marriage thirteen years ago to Miss Clara Eddleman of Marathon City, who passed away

a few years ago. To them were born two children, a daughter deceased, and one son, Walter, who makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ollhoff, the latter being his aunt.

Mr. Haas leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Haas, St. Maries, Idaho, six sisters and three brothers. They are Mrs. Frank Easton of this city, Mrs. E. Charrey, Wallace, Idaho; Mrs. John Sheffer, Mrs. John Landeryou, Mrs. L. Luce and Mrs. Helen Johnson of St. Maries, Idaho, Frank and Fred Haas of St. Maries and George Haas of Wallace.

Mr. Haas was treasurer of the town of Crescent which office he had held for many years. His gentility and optimism won him a large number of friends in this city and county. Even during his last illness he endured his sufferings bravely and continued to maintain a hopeful spirit throughout. His death is sincerely mourned.

ASHLAND ELKS WANT TOURNEY

Sheboygan, Wis., Feb. 26.—Two changes in the leaders in the Elks' state bowling tournament were recorded on Sunday. The Elks No. 1, of Ashland, went into fourth place in the team event with 2,649, and E. Alshuler, Racine, rolled into a tie with George McBride, Milwaukee, for second place in the singles, with 621. The Ashland boosters, headed by Exalted Ruler Stevens, offered on Sunday to add three more alleys to the three they now have in their handsome clubhouse, if given the 1918 tournament. The bowlers, however, feel that Ashland is too far away to draw many bowlers from the southern and southeastern part of the state, and fear the tournament would not be the success that it has always been, having grown larger every year.

German-American Alliance of Portage for Liquor Vote

Prohibition of the legalized liquor traffic is in the air. Alois Zienert, president of the Portage branch of the German-American Alliance, has declared in favor of the Evjue bill to submit the question of state-wide prohibition to a vote of the people.

Mr. Zienert, who is a native of Austria, was formerly Mayor of Portage. His father was a keeper of a public house in Austria.

In supporting the Evjue bill Mr. Zienert believes he is voicing the sentiments of a considerable number of German-Americans. Whether or not this is the fact, expressions secured from other business and professional men indicate that Mr. Zienert reflects the view of a large number of Portage citizens.

Among those expressing themselves in favor of the bill were former Secretary of State, I. Breeze, Edwin C. Jones, recent candidate for Secretary of State on the democratic ticket; H. B. Rogers, district attorney and chairman of the democratic county committee; E. S. Baker, chairman of the republican county committee; Daniel H. Grady, lawyer and well known democratic leader; H. E. Andrews, former member of the republican state central committee; R. E. York and C. E. York, millers. All these men have particular opportunity for observing the trend of sentiment and are accustomed to judging public opinion. They discussed the subject from varying points of view, some favoring and some opposing prohibition, but all favoring the submitting of the question.

In speaking of his stand on the Evjue bill, Mr. Zienert said:

"It is time for the people of Wisconsin to vote on the proposition of abolishing the saloon," said Mr. Zienert. "The American saloon is a low and degrading influence in our social order. Regulation has failed because it is impossible to regulate the American custom of treating. It is the practice of treating which is responsible for much of the drunkenness. I see no way to meet the peculiar abuses which accompany drinking in this country excepting by wiping out public drinking places. Prohibition is coming because the people are disgusted with the way the saloons are conducted. I am disgusted. I believe the people will welcome an opportunity to vote on the question."

This sentiment is reflected in the stand of the legislators from that district. Senator Staudenmeyer announcing last week that he intended to vote for the bill, because he believed the question should go before the people.

If you believe with these men that this bill is right and that to refuse to submit the question to the people would be wrong in principle, write to your assemblyman and your senator at Madison and urge them to vote in favor of the bill, which will come up very soon.

Indecision Kills Many
Were the means at hand for curing and preventing diphtheria used as extensively and as early as they should be, there would be practically no deaths from the disease nowadays. It is not so very long ago when the very thought of diphtheria was enough to drive cold chills up and down the spine of every parent. Now it is a controllable disease. But it is not as yet entirely controlled.

Antitoxin has been the agency which has reduced the number of deaths by one-half. That it hasn't almost completely wiped out the disease as a cause of death, isn't the fault of the antitoxin. Instead, the fault lies, in practically every instance, with somebody's dallying in the handling of the case. If the parent delays calling a competent physician and the physician delays diagnosis and hesitates for one reason or another about giving treatment, the disease may have progressed so far as to make cure impossible or unlikely.

How important is the speedy administration of the remedy is indicated by very interesting figures. In 2135 cases where antitoxin was offered by Brook Hospital, London, given the first day, there were no deaths. In 1441 where treatment was given on the second day, 62 died. Of the 1600 first treated on the third day, 178 died. Of the 1276 first treated on the fourth day, 220 were lost. A delay of five days before instituting proper treatment cost the lives of 308 of the 1645 so treated.

In 1915, there were 186 deaths from diphtheria in Wisconsin. Considered in the light of the above testimony, concerning the patients treated with antitoxin on the first day of the disease, it appears that 186 lives were needlessly sacrificed. Perhaps this does not appear to be important to you. If your child had been among the number, however, it would have been mighty important to you.

And what guarantee have you that some child very near and dear to you will not be among the number next year? If your child does, are you going to call assistance promptly? If antitoxin is suggested, are you going to obstruct the physician or are you going to tell him to go to it as though his life were at stake? On the response to that question, returned by all of the parents of the state, will rest the answer as to how many innocents will be driven into the Great Beyond by this means next year.

Bethlehem's Bid on Shells for the United States Navy

To the American People:

The Secretary of the Navy has awarded contracts amounting to over $3,000,000 to a British bidder for 14 and 16-inch projectiles for the Navy because of very much lower prices offered by the English bidders.

We know nothing of the basis upon which the British bids were made, but the public is entitled to know the facts upon which we ourselves bid for this work.

Two years ago we took contracts to make 1,200 14-inch shells at a price of $1,515,000. Up to now not a single shell has been accepted by the Government, although we have expended, in wages, materials, etc., on these orders $322,831, and we have not received a SINGLE DOLLAR on these contracts.

In addition, a literal interpretation of the contract might make us liable for penalties amounting to $678,816.

In the light of our experience, and having no other basis, we bid for 16-inch shells approximately the same rate per pound as that which the Navy Department actually awarded a 14-inch shell contract one year ago.

Don't Wait for the Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit By Rhinelander People's Experiences. Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are frequent symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time but generally return with greater intensity. Don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up their use until the desired results are obtained. Good work in Rhinelander proves the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. J. Standinger, 727 Arbutus St., Rhinelander, says: "I was bothered by kidney weakness and once I had to call in a physician. Finally I had the good fortune to learn of Doan's Kidney Pills and they soon gave me relief. After I took a couple of boxes, my kidneys became normal and I had no further need of a kidney medicine until two years ago. Then trouble with my kidneys set in again and they acted too often. I again took Doan's Kidney Pills and obtained quick relief."

CAR SHORTAGE CAUSES WORRY

Scarcity of railroad cars is causing no small amount of worry among Oneida county loggers and pulp men. For weeks they have been endeavoring to get sufficient cars to move their product but with out success. Unless relief comes soon many operators will sustain severe financial losses.

Railroad men in Rhinelander say they look for an improvement in the car situation from this time on.

GRANDMA FRENCH CALLED

On Wednesday morning our people were shocked when the report made its round that Helena French, one of our pioneer citizens, had been suddenly called by the Great Master. She retired Tuesday evening at her usual hour, however not feeling quite as bright as usual, but she uttered no unusual complaint. Early Wednesday morning she was heard about her room, after which she retired again and no more attention was paid to her until breakfast time. She failed to respond to several calls so her daughter, Mrs. Ball, went to her room and was shocked to find her dead.

Death has removed from us one of our most esteemed old ladies. She was known and respected by our entire population. Her husband—the old famous trapper, Frederick French, was robbed from her some eighteen years ago by a murderer. The old lady mourned much through these long years, however she was well provided for and suffered not for want. Her husband was an old pensioner and consequently the government provided a widow's pension for her; this in connection with the acts of her good children allowed her to spend her days quietly and comfortably.

Mrs. French leaves four children two sons and two daughters; they being Charlie, Fred, Louise and Anna. The funeral services were held at the Catholic church, the remains being escorted from the residence by the Ladies' Rosary Society, of which society the deceased was a member. Rev. Kalandyk of Rhinelander conducted the funeral services, the church being well filled by mourning friends. The Royal Neighbors provided beautiful white carnations which accompanied the remains to their final resting place. May she rest in peace.

Card Of Thanks
We, the undersigned, desire to take this means in thanking our many friends who so were so kind to us in so many ways during our dark hours—when our dear mother, Helena French, passed from this earth.

There is a good anecdote of an Irishman giving the password at the battle of Fontenoy, at the time the great Sax was marshal. "The password is Sax; now, don't forget it," said the colonel. "Sax; faith, I won't. Wasn't my father a miller?" "Who goes there?" cried the sentry, after he had arrived at the pass. The Irishman looked as confidential as possible and whispered in a sort of howl: "Bags, yer honor."

THE SOLICITOR

By LOUISE OLIVER.

Ferdinand Weigel put down the slop pails and turned around.

Carrie, breathless and flushed from running, put her hand to her throat.

"Say, dad, you're awful deaf. I've been callin' and callin'."

"Hey? Well, what is it? Cribbses want to borrow the mare again? Tell them to walk to town. They lamed her last time."

"No, dad, it ain't Cribbses after the mare. It's Sam Karna. He's back from the city and he's solidin'."

"What?"

"He's solidin'."

"What's that? After somethin'?"

"Well, sort of. You come on down to the house, won't you, and talk to Sam? It's about a new buildin' in town. He's all dressed up and sittin' on the front porch. Hurry up an' come on, dad."

"All right, I'll be down."

"When did you come back to town, Sam?" Carrie, in her gingham dress, with white collar and cuffs and a dress-up apron, was very pretty. Her hair, corn-colored and wavy, touched off a complexion of roses and cream that reminded Sam of the big bisque dolls in the city windows. Her eyes, with their long, dark lashes, were big and very deep gray.

"I came back last Tuesday. I'm running the campaign."

"Campaign? Oh, are you trying to be elected?"

Sam laughed. "No, it's not politics. I'm an organizer. That's a man who takes charge of things and makes things come that nobody else will bother with. When a town wants a new library or hospital or chamber of commerce building, they send for me. Then I roll up my sleeves and go to work. The old town here wants a library, so that's why I came back, to get them what they wanted. Oh, I'm the man that put the 'g' in get, all right. We're after fifty thousand dollars."

Carrie's eyes were big. "Is that what you're solidin' for?"

"Yes."

"He won't give much."

"You just wait and see. I'm after a hundred dollars."

"Goodness!" Her eyes widened.

"Why, he won't give me and ma enough money for a new hat."

"But won't it be fine to have a library in town?"

"I wouldn't know what to do with it."

"Why get books and read them. Magazines, too; and all sorts of things. A pretty girl like you wants to know a lot, Carrie."

"I know enough. I can bake the best angel food of any girl in Clark county."

"All right! Maybe you can, but I'll bet you don't know who Shakespeare's contemporaries were."

"What did you say?" she asked bewildered. "Oh, here's dad now."

Sam began instantly. "I came to get your subscription to the new library, Mr. Weigel. You've heard about it, I suppose. Let me see, we've put you down for a hundred dollars."

"What?" cried the old farmer. "I'll be hamfugged if I will!" He pushed back his chair, crossed his knees and fumbled awkwardly for his pipe.

"What's the darned thing for?"

"A library for the county. Books, you know. Books." And then Sam gave a dissertation on the blessings of a library in a tone calculated to waken the nannies in Egypt.

And he got the hundred.

"Goodby, Sam," said Carrie, putting her hand to her smooth, snowy throat.

"Goodby, Carrie," said Sam, and then in a tone which Egyptian nannies could never have heard he leaned forward and said, "I've learned to know what beauty is since I've been away, Carrie, and you're the loveliest thing I've seen in that line ever." He pressed her hand gently—and was gone.

A year passed. Ferdinand Weigel was going for the cows one day when Carrie called, "Dad, oh Dad!"

The old man turned. "Hey? Well, what is it? Cribbses want to—"

"No, it isn't the Cribbses, dad. It's Sam Karna. He wants to see you."

"Wants me to build another library, does he? Well, tell him to go and talk to the chickens. I'm busy. What's he want?"

"I don't know," Carrie smiled and dimpled. "He said to tell you he's solidin'."

Carrie had picked up on her G's since reading books from the library, and she had found out just what "Shap-speare's contemporaries" meant.

At the head of the hill Carrie and her father met Sam, who came up energetic, irresponsible, smiling. The old man had to acknowledge that his visitor was splendid looking, but nevertheless he retailed his scowl.

"How do you do, Mr. Weigel?" said Sam, pleasantly holding out his hand.

"How do?" responded Ferdinand suspiciously. "What do you want now? Solidin' again, Carrie says."

"Yes, I am, Mr. Weigel."

"What fer, now?"

"For Carrie. I want her this time, and she seems to think it's all right."

The old man stroked his whiskers an instant or two with shaking fingers—but he looked his relief.

Blucher in the Hospital.

At the time of the seven years war there was very little knowledge of surgery, and the surgeons were often no more than barbers, inexperienced and uneducated. They were commonly known as the "Company of Pain," a name that fitted them admirably. Lieutenant Blucher, afterward the famous field marshal, was wounded in the foot by a musket ball. At the hospital to which he was carried several surgeons began to probe the wound and cut promiscuously in its vicinity. Finally Blucher inquired, in spite of the pain, "What sort of talking are you trying to do? The wound is large enough already. I should think!" "We're looking for the bullet," answered one of the offended surgeons. "Oh! Oh!" cried Blucher angrily. "Why didn't you tell me that before! I have it in my pocket." And with that he drew from his pocket the bullet, which he had extracted from the wound himself.

Change of Scene After Grief.

Many women find in change of scene a most wise course to follow when some trouble comes to them. The old associations, which serve to renew their grief, whereas being in a strange place among strangers they seem to find new strength. New interests make claims upon them, and little by little they become resigned to the inevitable.

Simply Impossible.

A Chicago woman who had received a legal summons to appear in a certain court at a certain period was much put out thereby. In explaining the matter to a friend, she said: "I have certainly received the citation, but I shall not appear—could not, in fact. Not only am I not socially acquainted with Judge Jones, but the whole tone of his communication is so impossible that I absolutely refuse to know him."

The Great Britain for the protection of migratory birds, the ratifications whereof were exchanged on the seventh day of December, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the senate and house of representatives of the United States of America in congress assembled, That unless and except as permitted by regulations made as hereinafter provided, hunting, taking, capturing, killing, attempting to take, capture, or kill, possessing, offering for sale, selling, offering for purchase, purchasing, delivering for shipment, shipping, causing to be shipped, delivering for transportation, transporting, or causing to be transported by any means whatever, receiving for shipment or transportation, or exporting at any time or in any manner, any migratory bird included in the terms of the convention between the United States and Great Britain for the protection of migratory birds, or any part, nest, or eggs thereof, is prohibited.

Sec. 8. That this Act shall become effective immediately upon its passage and approval.

SOME PRICES GRANDMA PAID

"When mother was a girl" might have been all right to buy the necessities of life, but the little luxuries which we now find almost indispensable come rather reasonable to day in comparison with a hundred years ago.

J. L. Wakefield of the Standard Mercantile company showed the Leader man a list of commodities this week which was copied from a set of store books kept in 1847—a hundred years ago—by Mrs. Wakefield's grandmother, then a merchant at Elliott, N. Y. The prices on this list are most interesting in comparison with those of today. Most noticeable is the big change in the prices of articles which modern methods of manufacture have made possible to produce in large quantities which formerly was done by hand. For instance, in 1835, grand mother paid 1 cent each for beads and eyes, while today a card of a dozen of each can be purchased for 5 cents. Sugar, which of late has gone beyond all records of increase in price, cost 15 cents per pound, while cacao was 31 cents per yard in comparison with 7 1/2 cents today. Butter, which was all made by the industrious housewife seemed to be a drug on the market at a shilling a pound. Today it costs the consumer 12 cents.

Other prices of common articles a century ago and today are: Starch was 25 cents per pound, now 5; silk and twist was 6, now two for 5; cambric was 25 cents a yard now 10 1/2; nails were scarce at 12 1/2 cents per pound and today they are 5.—Tonahawk Leader.

TO CLEAN SILVER

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS TELL OF TEST METHODS.

Directions for Preparing a Cleansing Material That Has Much Virtue—Must Be Applied With Care and Thoroughness.

For the benefit of those who have the care of silver, the office of home economics at Washington has made a thorough study of the electrolytic method of cleaning and has published the results of their work in United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 419.

After discussing several types of commercial cleaners and giving the results of various analyses, they suggest the following method as being cheap and satisfactory:

"An enamel or agateware dish should be partly filled with a cleansing solution of one teaspoonful of either washing or baking soda and one teaspoonful of common table salt to each quart of water and placed directly on the stove to boil. A sheet of aluminum or clean zinc should then be dropped into the dish and tarnished silver placed in contact with the metal. It is best that the silver be entirely covered with the cleansing solution and that the solution remain at the boiling temperature. As soon as the tarnish has been removed the silver should be removed, rinsed in clean water, and wiped with a soft cloth. Zinc may be used in place of aluminum, but it becomes corroded and inactive in a much shorter time."

The electrolytic method cleans plated or sterling silverware without loss of metal, giving, however, a satin finish rather than a burnished appearance, and has the additional advantages of being both clean and labor-saving.—Clara Olden, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.

Silver Cake.

Beat whites of four eggs stiff, one and one-half cupfuls sugar, one-half cupful butter, one cupful cream or rich milk, two and one-third cupfuls flour, two teaspoonfuls cream tartar, one teaspoonful soda or two and one-half teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful scent of salt, flavor with lemon. Cream butter and sugar together. Add egg whites, then milk, alternately, with flour in which baking powder and salt have been sifted four times. Last add one cupful coconut if liked. Frost with cream frosting made as follows: One and one-half cupfuls powdered sugar, two teaspoonfuls butter and sufficient cream to make of right consistency to spread. No flavoring, as butter and cream flavor it. Beat hard five minutes and spread on cake.

Delmonico Cream Potatoes.

Here are two Delmonico potato recipes: Pare potatoes and cut them into bits the size of a pea. Keep them in cold water until all are ready. For each scant pint of potatoes make a pint of white sauce, seasoning with onion juice or celery salt. Stir the potatoes into the hot sauce, turn into a well-buttered agate sauce pan and cook in the oven until the potatoes are tender and the sauce is absorbed, with the exception of just enough to hold the bits of potatoes together. Fold one part over the other as an omelet and turn onto a hot dish. The potatoes should not brown above or below. If necessary, set them on the grate and cover the pan.

Fried Parsley.

We always use a little fried parsley to ornament our meat dishes with. This is how it is done: Wait until a bluish smoke is rising from the fat, then remove it to the side of the fire. When it has cooled slightly throw in the parsley, and leave it until the fat has almost stopped spluttering. Then lift it out at once and drain it well. When it should be a lovely green color. Be careful not to overfry it, or it will turn an ugly brownish color.—Boston Globe.

Lemon Pudding.

Sauce—One and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one and one-half cupfuls water, butter size of egg, juice and rind of one lemon.

Batter—One cupful sugar, one cupful water, butter size of egg, one teaspoonful baking powder, flour enough to make batter like cake.

Mix the sauce in granite pan and let stand till dissolved, then pour batter over sauce and bake in a medium oven. Good either hot or cold.

Aurora Borealis.

Manifestations of aurora borealis are commonly visible in America as far south as 40 degrees—which would include New York. At 40 degrees latitude about ten auroras are visible in a year; at 42 degrees about twenty, and 45 about forty, while between the latitudes of 50 and 50 degrees, the zone of the greatest frequency, they may be seen almost any clear night. South of 50 degrees they are rare.

Rack Rents.

A "rack rent" is a "rent that is equivalent to the full net annual value of the real property out of which it issues, or approximately so." By statute in England today rack rent is defined as "not less than two-thirds of the full net annual value of the lands out of which it arises."

AUTOISTS SHOULD OBSERVE RULES

Dear Editor:—
In a month more Rhinelander motorists will be quite numerous on our streets, more numerous than ever before. Our streets have not grown in width, hence more accidents will happen than ever unless all car owners or operators arrive at some definite understanding concerning signals and right of way. There is some vague understanding that cars travelling north and south on Brown and Stevens streets have precedence over east and west bound automobiles. But what about the other streets?

Then, traffic signals differ in different cities; ours are simple, we have none, at least, few motorists use them. Our exceedingly narrow streets and the increasing number of cars render imperative some very definite code of signalling. In the absence of an auto club in this city the Commercial Club or the local papers should take up the matter of informing Rhinelander car drivers in the important matter of careful operation of cars. My experience last summer on certain days was that as much care had to be exercised on Rhinelander streets as in Minneapolis, in some respects more, for, we Rhinelander motorists do not signal to the car behind when we stop or turn as they do in larger towns. We don't, but I think we should. I was bumped into last summer twice because I neglected signalling. I did not ask the car owner behind me to pay for the damage he did to my car—in fact I considered myself lucky not to have to pay him for his injured lights. I was at fault. I can see it no other way.

Then let us call attention to the fact that many farmers tie their horses on the wrong side of the street. A proof of this may be had on most any summer day.

Then with the advent of so many new cars, it will be very practical to insist that pedestrians cross the principal streets at the corners only and at right angles with the streets, not diagonally. One who crosses diagonally must watch two streets as he crosses, the other way one need watch one street only. Ever take police of Davenport street from Brown to Stevens on a summer day? Both are well lined with packed cars. Davenport is a narrow street. Suppose a youngster dashed out from behind one of these cars to cross the street. The car coming down Davenport even at seven or eight miles could easily hit such a person. And how many cars travel that slowly? Even the distant glimmer of Chief Straub's star will hardly cause the average car speed to be brought below 15 or 18 miles. Witnesses to the accident pictured above would surely exonerate the driver, but that would never restore a destroyed young life. But if pedestrians through the papers and children in schools are instructed to cross only at street corners similar accidents cannot easily happen.

Few small towns like ours insist upon such "big town" rules as I am suggesting, but be it remembered that few small cities have as narrow streets as we have. Our streets were laid out before the advent of horseless vehicles. The stable should be locked ere the horse is stolen. Definite regulations should be made before some regrettable accident forces us to it. Merely passing ordinances will not suffice. Women and children, the ones most likely to suffer through auto accidents, do not read ordinances. The school must be the medium of instructing children concerning the dangers, and adults must be warned by systematic enlightenment given in a conspicuous part of the local papers.

W. A. BEAUDETTE.

COMPLETE CHAPEL CAMPAIGN
Amid ringing of bells, shouts of the college students, and speeches by the professors and prominent citizens of Appleton, Lawrence College completed Friday night its local campaign for $125,000 for a new chapel. The total amount raised was $126,451. In addition, $10,000 was raised for a pipe organ for the new building, making a grand total of $136,451.

This campaign is a part of a larger movement for a half million dollars which the college has inaugurated and which must be completed by March 1 of next year. President Samuel Plantz announced that half of this amount has been raised since June of last year, within the coming year.

THE ESPIONAGE BILL
(Contributed by J. C. T.)
The Chicago Examiner rages and roars over the proposed espionage bill before congress and bemoans the fact that it will put a crimp in the free will offerings of the Examiner line up of papers, offerings by the way, which of late have perhaps largely been responsible for the necessary consideration of the storesaid bill.

If the Hearst newspapers (we see the Chicago Examiner in this section of the country) would pay more attention to discussing the rights and strictly legitimate functions of the U. S. A., and less to the injustice (?) done Germany and the devil-may-care attitude of England, perhaps the espionage bill would not have brought out a full page of vilification of Attorney General Gregory of the U. S. A., who considers the bill a necessity for the safety of this country and the property interests contained therein.

MUST SAVE TWINE
Economy with Uncle Sam's property must be the watchword of postal employees. A new order tells clerks to throw away no twine which is usable.

If there is a bow knot in twine on an incoming package, it must be untied to save the entire piece. Only one strand must be cut on incoming packages, and that close to the knot. Usable pieces of twine must be kept and knotted together during spare time of employees, provided they have such moments. Pieces too short for use must be kept, and when fifty pounds have been gathered, the postoffice department must be asked as to disposition of the accumulation.

"SECOND REGIMENT BEST ON BORDER"—FUNSTON

Every citizen of Rhinelander will read with a feeling of just pride the following words of praise for the Second Wisconsin Infantry, of which Company L is a member, received by the New North Wednesday from Fort Sheridan, Ill. "The best National Guard regiment on the border," is what the late General Funston said of the Second regiment:

Headquarters 2nd Wis. Inf., Fort Sheridan, Ill., Feb. 28, '17. General Orders No. 2.

On the mustering out of the Federal service of the 2nd Wisconsin Infantry, the Commanding Officer desires to express to the officers and men of the command his personal appreciation of their successful efforts in making this regiment what, according to an army officer, the late General Funston has repeatedly said, it was, "the best all round National Guard regiment on the border."

Through your co-operation and willingness to work you have made it possible for this regiment to hold a most enviable reputation. It was conceded as being the best marching regiment in the 12th Provisional Division; it established a Camp Wilson record in breaking camp; it has established for the Central Department a muster out record; its papers and property were reported as being in the best shape of any regiment mustered out at Fort Sheridan. Through your enlistment you enabled the regiment to be the largest of any in the border service. The football squad takes back to Wisconsin one of the two trophies offered in athletics. Your conduct in the south brought credit to the regiment.

Your work made the military force recognize the claim that Wisconsin has made for years, that the Wisconsin National Guard is the best in the United States.

The spirit demonstrated in the moment of disappointment when your spirits were at their zenith over going home, you were ordered to remain at Camp Wilson owing to a foreign complication, was the talk of the Division Headquarters, officers as well as the talk of the different organizations at Camp Wilson and most favorably commented on by San Antonio papers. It demonstrated that you were ready to serve your country regardless as to what the call might be; that you were soldiers and American citizens above all else.

The Colonel commanding also desires to express his high appreciation relative to the advice and instruction shown and leadership displayed by the Brigade Commander, General L. T. Richardson, which played an important part in the training of the regiment.

The spirit demonstrated during the border service has been such as should insure this regiment remaining in the lead in home service, a thing which can be done if the spirit in the past is maintained in the future.

You return to civil life still soldiers in the state service subject to the call of the President. It is trusted that every step will be taken to keep this command in its present proficient condition, recruited to the maximum, trained in marksmanship and thoroughly drilled and equipped, so that if another call does come the command will be able to take the field ready for any service it may be put to. It is hoped the call may never come, but if it does, it is known that the officers and men of the regiment will be ever ready to do their part.

To say that you have been a member of the 2nd Wisconsin Infantry during the border service is sufficient to carry with it a recognition that you have been well trained and have done your part toward the country's preparedness. What ever border service badge you wear will be a symbol that your work was well done, in the country's defense.

By order of Colonel Lee,
BYRON BEVERIDGE,
Captain, 2nd Wis. Inf. Adt.

TO INCREASE COUNTY BOARD

Madison, Feb. 26.—A bill by Assemblyman John J. Koepsell, of Sheboygan, provides for further representation of cities on the county boards. Except in cities of the first class, every ward, or part thereof of any city and every incorporated village or part thereof shall be represented in the county board by at least one supervisor.

Editors of country newspapers are showing some interest in another bill offered by Assemblyman Burnett. It provides that any railroad company in this state may exchange for advertising in any daily or weekly newspaper tickets or mileage books. If the editor of the paper holds an office of public trust these provisions will not apply. The amount of transportation that may be allowed is limited to 2,500 miles in any one year to each newspaper.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

By EARL REED SILVERS.

The carriage rounded the last turn and started the long upward climb. On the very peak of the hill the Ferndale house stood out clearly against the blue of the late August sky. Lawrence Wellington gazed with interest upon the scene of his future activities.

"The place looks to be just about right," he muttered. "The only question now is the girls."

The carriage drew to a halt, and a colored porter hurried down the steps. The porter miraculously burdened himself with a suitcase, a golf bag, a tennis racket, and some fishing tackle, and led the way into the hotel. Sitting in one of the comfortably-upholstered chairs near the door was a girl. She was very much the same as most of the other girls who frequent exclusive summer hotels, but to the new arrival she appeared different. As he entered, she looked up casually, and for a moment her glance met his. Suddenly into her eyes came the light of recognition. She rose and stepped toward him, her hand extended.

"How are you, Milton?" Her voice expressed unexpected pleasure and delight. "I had no idea you were coming to Ferndale."

Lawrence took the outstretched hand and shook it heartily. If a hint of surprised delight was in his eyes, the girl did not notice it.

"I didn't tell anyone I was coming," he said. "It was a sort of surprise."

"Well, I'm glad, anyhow. How long are you going to stay?"

"Until October."

She clapped her hands delightedly. "So am I. Isn't that fine?"

"It sure is." His voice matched hers in enthusiasm. "What are you going to do this afternoon?"

"Nothing."

"Will you wait until I unpack a bit and then go canoeing with me?" His glance strayed to the shadowed lake.

"Why, yes. But I'll have to dress first."

"All right; I'll see you later, then."

"I'll be back in twenty minutes."

With a bright smile, she turned and entered the waiting elevator. Lawrence addressed the impassive porter.

"Rastus," he said, "I'll give you 50 cents extra if you tell me the name of that young lady."

"She am Miss Marjorie Sherwood," the negro announced, grinning. "She done come from Beach Haven, New Jersey."

"Oh, I remember now!" Lawrence smiled broadly.

He was waiting on the porch when Marjorie made her appearance. She was dressed in a white sport costume, with a soft straw hat which drooped like a sunbonnet.

When they were well out in the center of the lake she looked at him with a hint of reproach in her eyes.

"Why didn't you tell me you were coming?" she asked.

"I didn't know it until yesterday," he answered. "And then it was too late."

"Why haven't you answered my letter?"

"What letter?"

"Why, the one about the house party on Thanksgiving day."

He looked at her in mock dismay.

"I never got it."

"Honestly?"

"Honestly and truly." He crossed his heart in evident sincerity. "Where did you send it?"

"To New York, of course."

"I haven't been in New York in a month," he announced triumphantly.

"Of course I didn't get it."

She looked at him in amazement.

"You haven't been in New York in a month?"

"No; I've been down in Baltimore."

A puzzled frown came over the girl's face. She bent forward and looked intently at her companion.

"You wrote me from New York just two weeks ago," she said.

He slapped his knee and tried to look relieved.

"By George, so I did!" he answered.

"I had stopped over in New York for the day."

"But you told me you had been working in the city all through July," she persisted, "and didn't have a chance to get away."

For a moment he looked over the water, trying to think of a way out of his peculiar dilemma. The girl was looking at him curiously. He realized that the jig was up.

"Who do you think I am?" he asked, suddenly.

"Why, Milton Wellington, of course."

A twinkle played about the corner of his eyes, but his face was serious.

"I have been deceiving you," he announced. "I am not Milton Wellington at all."

She looked at him in utter wonder.

"I'm Milton's twin brother."

It took him the rest of the afternoon to persuade her that she should forgive him for his imposition. But when the sun was sinking beyond the towering hill to the west, and the shadows fell quietly over the waters of the lake, she softened.

"Maybe I will forgive you," she said.

"But it wasn't a very nice thing to do, was it?"

He smiled into her eyes.

"No," he answered. "But it's all in the family, you know. It doesn't make so much difference, does it?"

She smiled back.

"Yes, it does," her lips answered. But her eyes said "No."

Maxwell Nothing to Buy Extra!

When you buy a Maxwell at the list price have a car that is exactly as you want it. There is not one single feature that you will want to add.

And you will find that the Maxwell is, but the very utmost satisfaction affords not only convenience as well.

You have an excellent electric starter—electric lights—rain-proof windshield—one man top—demountable rims—irreversible steering gear—speedometer—instrument board, etc., etc.

Many of these features you don't expect to find on a low priced car.

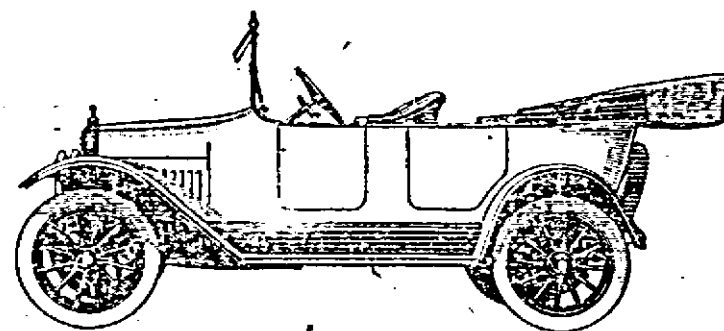

And it is also important to you to know that the Maxwell is built as a unit—IN THE MAXWELL FACTORIES. You do not have to tack on equipment to get the kind of a car you want. Even though you could take other low priced cars and add the necessary equipment at a cost to equal the first price of the Maxwell you would not have a car to compare, because it would be a patched up proposition.

A complete car—in every detail—convenient—serviceable—comfortable—the kind of a car you want—the kind of a car that you must have to give the satisfaction your investment should secure.

Let us show you this remarkable car—the world's greatest motor car value!

PUBLIC SCHOOL NEWS OF WEEK

Several cases of measles developed last week in the first grade of the Central school. One case was discovered there two weeks ago and the child was immediately quarantined. At the advice of the City Health Officer, Dr. Richards, and the school nurse, this grade will be closed for two weeks. Parents of children in this grade are earnestly urged to keep them at home and to watch them with care. We hope to check the spread of the disease if it is possible to do so. If any child shows symptoms of measles it is hoped the mother will call the family physician or the school nurse at once. Careful watch on the part of the parent and the nurse may help to check the spread of this troublesome disease. The following are the symptoms of measles as given by the State Board of Health:

"Begins like a cold in the head, with fever, running nose, watery inflamed eyes and sneezing. The rash appears about the third day and consists of small, irregular groups of dull-red slightly raised spots. These are usually first seen on the forehead and face, and they rapidly spread over the entire body. The rash may almost disappear if the patient becomes chilled, but reappears when the patient again becomes warm."

"A positive sign of measles is the so-called Koplik spots. These are bluish-white specks upon a red ground, which are best seen in the inside of cheeks opposite the molar teeth. Strong sunlight may be necessary to see these."

Observe Song Week

The city schools observed last week as a week of patriotic songs. Children in the grades learned the words of our national songs and sang them every day. The teachers prepared for this by having the children practice these songs for several weeks. The pupils are also learning the salute to the flag. Those in the kindergartens and primary grades are learning this salute, which will be given hereafter every Monday morning.

"We give our heads and our hearts to God and our country. One nation, one language, one flag."

In the upper grades they are learning and repeating the national salute.

"I pledge allegiance to my flag and the country for which it stands. One nation, indivisible—with liberty and justice for all."

We hope in the near future to have a flag displayed in every school room, as we have on every building. A later week will be given to a study of our national flag and of the various other flags that are used in the United States.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT DRY MEETING

(Contributed)
The Oneida County Dry Federation held a large and enthusiastic meeting at the Library Wednesday evening.

Arrangements were started to have Father Dowling, chaplain of the state's prison, at Waupun, speak in Rhinelander at an early date, on the "Relation of Alcohol to Crime." Announcement of the date of this lecture will be made later.

Father Dowling is very highly spoken of in both Protestant and Catholic circles and it will certainly be a rare opportunity for people here to hear such a man. On March 26, Grant Hudson, the famous attorney who managed the campaign that put Michigan dry by 70,000, will speak here at the Armory. His speech will interest you whether you are wet or dry. Come and hear him. Remember the date March 26.

On March 27 he speaks at Eagle River. Eagle River is also going dry this spring.

Reports from the various towns surrounding Rhinelander, were given and were very favorable. Sentiment in favor of getting rid of the saloons seems to be growing rapidly.

The next meeting of the Dry Federation will be at 8 o'clock Wednesday eve, March 7 in the lecture room of the Library. Anyone interested in making Rhinelander dry is invited to come to this meeting.
